Bridge to Pre-Apprentice/Utility Worker—Veterans program

PG&E's PowerPathway™ is now accepting applications to the Bridge to Pre-Apprentice/Utility Worker program—a customized, 10 week career prep course for veterans that will strengthen your candidacy for employment and add to your knowledge of the energy and utility industry. Coursework includes technical, job-specific and soft skills training, as well as the physical conditioning needed to effectively compete for entry-level field jobs.

Get prepared to climb into a growing industry

Prepare yourself with the entry-level skills needed to be considered for job opportunities in a high growth industry that offers good salaries and a variety of career opportunities.

- Are you mechanically or technically inclined?
- Do you like working with electronics and/or electrical equipment?
- Interested in working outdoors in a physically demanding work environment?
- Do you have construction-related skills?

If this sounds like you, complete a course interest form today. We want to hear from you!

PG&E pre-apprentice/utility workers earn starting salaries of up to $25 per hour with a competitive benefits package, including: company-paid pension and matching 401(k), medical/dental/vision benefits, developmental opportunities, tuition reimbursement and much more.

Your career pathway to new energy jobs

Thanks to a grant by the California Employment Development Department (EDD), PG&E's PowerPathway and the Fresno Regional Workforce Investment Board have teamed up with local community colleges to help California veterans prepare and compete for high demand jobs in the utility and energy industry. Career pathways such as the PowerPathway Bridge to Pre-Apprentice /Utility Worker program help veterans transition quickly from military life into high wage jobs in growing industries.

Non-veteran candidates interested in preparing for careers in the energy and utility sector may visit www.pge.com/powerpathway to explore eligibility for other programs offered. To search for and apply to current openings at PG&E, please visit www.pge.com/careers.
